

Josh Levinson

Joshua Levinson, president of Artistic Tile, is a proud ambassador for the brand interfacing with both customers and suppliers globally. He finds great excitement in visiting the quarries of the natural stones that Artistic Tile offers, noting that the quarry is the heart and soul of the industry. “To visit a quarry is to truly know and appreciate the stone that is born there,” declares Levinson.

Levinson oversees the technical and logistical operations of the company, and on a daily basis works to insure the timely, safe and successful installation of Artistic Tile’s beautiful product on job sites worldwide.

Levinson is a frequent presenter to the trade and as well as homeowners. Years of practical knowledge gained through job site visits, quarry tours, factory inspections, and educational seminars have made him a sought after resource. He has been certified by the IICRC (Institute of Inspection Cleaning and Restoration Certification), for Substrate/Subfloor Inspection and Ceramic Tile Inspection.

Levinson participates in many industry initiatives; he is the MIA Education Committee Chair, a Voting Member of the Joint Committee on Dimensional Stone and a NTCA Technical Committee Member, among other affiliations.

A graduate of the University of Colorado, Levinson is married with three young children. In his spare time, he is an avid bicyclist and coach for the local youth league basketball team.

Nyle Wadford

Nyle Wadford is the president of Neuse Tile Service in Youngville, North Carolina, a long standing and highly successful commercial and residential tile contracting company. He is currently the President of the National Tile Contractors Association (NTCA) and serves on its technical committee, the handbook committee of the Tile Council of North America, and the American National Standards Institute's ASC A108 Committee for tile installation specifications.

James Woelfel

James Woelfel, vice president and estimator, chairs the NTCA Technical Committee, which establishes industry standards for tile and stone installation in the United States. He represents NTCA on the TCNA Handbook Committee, and serves on the ANSI ASC 108 Committee, making Artcraft Granite Marble & Tile Company one of two contractors worldwide to sit on all three committees. James has a Bachelor of Science degree from New Mexico State University.
